

California State University, Northridge National Center on Deafness

Commitment to Excellence

A liberal arts university with approximately 200 deaf students each semester successfully competing in over 50 technological and professional programs in the mainstream of the university for more than 25 years.

- NCOD provides deaf students with sign language and oral interpreting, notetaking, tutoring, and counseling services. Career planning and placement and speech and auditory training are available to deaf students.
- Deaf students participate in varsity and intramural sports. Student Government, seminars/workshops, social and cultural events, and fraternities and sororities foster personal and professional growth.
- Over 500 deaf students have graduated with bachelor's and master's degrees and have successfully gained competitive employment in fields for which they have trained.

For more information:
National Center on Deafness
California State University, Northridge
18111 Nordhoff Street
Northridge, California 91330
(818) 885-2614 V/TDD

